

The Orchard Morning

Morning came with light shining through the orchard trees. The branches were full of green leaves, and little birds moved from limb to limb. Sweet air filled the garden, and the ground glowed warm in the sun. I could see the goodness of God in every tree, every leaf, and every small part of the day. His world was rich with beauty and quiet wonder.

As I walked beneath the trees, I felt blessed by the Lord. He gives life, food, and joy, and His kindness reaches into every part of creation. I wanted this new day to be filled with thankful thoughts and faithful steps. My heart was happy to live in His blessing and to remember that all good things come from His loving hand.