

A Walk Through Wonder

A narrow path led me through the beauty of the morning. Wildflowers nodded in the breeze, and the trees stood bright in the early light. I heard birdsong, saw shining drops of dew, and felt the fresh air on my face. Every step reminded me that God had made a good and lovely world. His glory could be seen in the quiet beauty all around me.

My heart filled with praise as I walked. The Lord had given me another day to live, learn, and love. I felt glad to follow His ways and trust His Spirit to guide me. His goodness was not far away. It was all around me, and it rested gently on my soul. I felt blessed, peaceful, and full of joy in His care.
