

Joy at Daybreak

Daybreak came with golden light spreading over the land. The fields shone softly, the clouds glowed, and the world seemed fresh and new. Birds welcomed the morning, and the earth looked full of peace. I could see the goodness of God in the light, in the beauty, and in the order of all He had made. His glory filled the beginning of the day.

My heart was full of joy and thanks. The Lord had been kind to me, and His mercy was new again. I felt excited to live in His blessing and to spend the day close to Him. I wanted to follow His Spirit, do what is right, and remember His goodness in all things. At daybreak, I felt blessed, hopeful, and glad to be in God's care.
