

Mercies at Sunrise

The sun rose slowly over the water, and the lake shone like gold. Tiny waves touched the shore, and the reeds moved in the morning breeze. Birds flew across the bright sky, and the whole world seemed fresh and clean. I could see the goodness of God in the light, the water, and the peace of the new day. His creation felt full of beauty, order, and quiet joy.

My heart was thankful as I watched the morning begin. The Lord had given me life, breath, and another day to walk with Him. I wanted to keep His Word in my heart, follow His Spirit, and notice His blessings all around me. At sunrise, I felt calm, loved, and glad to live under the mercy of God.
