

HOMESCHOOL QUICK REFERENCE

Can I homeschool my child?

- Yes. You can homeschool without a teaching degree or license. School-age rules cover ages 5–17 on August 1; kindergarten may be deferred with a waiver.

Can I choose what to teach?

- You can choose or create your curriculum. Ordinary homeschooling has no state-prescribed subject list or approved-material requirement.

Can I choose my schedule?

- You can choose your own calendar. The state sets no minimum homeschool days or hours.

How do I get started?

- File yearly intent with your resident district by August 15. For a midyear withdrawal, give at least 5 school days' notice; the district may waive the wait.
- Return school property before leaving. Suspension, discipline, and registered-sex-offender household restrictions can affect eligibility; see the official rules.

Is testing required?

- Ordinary homeschooling requires no annual state test, portfolio review, or progress report. Personal learning records are optional.

How Faith Schooling Makes It Easier

- Faith Readers supports K–5 reading and phonics; Grammar Garden supports language and writing; Building Number Sense provides K–5 mathematics.
- Choose reading, writing, and math lessons, then add subjects your family values. The free Homeschool Rhythm Builder helps plan your week.

Other choices & helpful details

- Optional Education Freedom Accounts add subject, testing, and spending rules.

Official sources — click the underlined links

Official homeschool guidance

Current notice forms and parent FAQ

Official

Reviewed October 8, 2026 • School year 2026–2027