

HOMESCHOOL QUICK REFERENCE

Can I homeschool my child?

- Yes. For 2026–2027, you can teach at home without a teaching license or state homeschool approval. Attendance generally applies from 5 to under 18, with allowed entry delays.

Can I choose what to teach?

- Choose your books and methods. Provide learning comparable to public schooling in reading, writing, spelling, English grammar, geography, arithmetic, U.S. history, and citizenship/government.

Can I choose my schedule?

- You choose the schedule. No specific homeschool day or hour total is required for 2026–2027.

How do I get started?

- Provide the required instruction. State law does not require a homeschool registration form this school year.
- If your child is enrolled, communicate withdrawal to the school. A notice of intent and learning records are state recommendations, not required filings for 2026–2027.

Is testing required?

- No required annual standardized test, portfolio review, or academic report for 2026–2027. You may keep work samples and progress notes for your own planning.

How Faith Schooling Makes It Easier

- Faith Readers supports K–5 reading and phonics; Grammar Garden supports language and writing; Building Number Sense provides K–5 mathematics.
- Use these resources for reading, writing, grammar, and arithmetic. Add geography, U.S. history, and citizenship/government. The Homeschool Rhythm Builder helps you set the weekly pace.

Other choices & helpful details

- Later-year changes: The enacted law adds withdrawal rules in 2027–2028 and notice rules in 2028–2029. They do not apply to 2026–2027.

Official sources — click the underlined links

Official homeschool guidance

Enacted law and future effective dates

Official

Reviewed October 8, 2026 • School year 2026–2027