

HOMESCHOOL QUICK REFERENCE

Can I homeschool my child?

- Yes. You can teach without a teaching degree or license. Provide education in good faith that is comparable to public schooling. Attendance generally applies from 5 to under 18.

Can I choose what to teach?

- Choose your curriculum. OSDE recommends reading, writing, math, science, citizenship/the U.S. Constitution, health, safety, PE, and conservation. The law does not prescribe a separate homeschool subject list.

Can I choose my schedule?

- You can organize your daily lessons. Provide education for the full term your local schools are in session. OSDE's 180-day/6-hour figures, adjusted for age, are guidance rather than a fixed homeschool total written into the law.

How do I get started?

- Begin genuine instruction. No state homeschool registration or prior approval. If your child is enrolled, notify the school of withdrawal.

Is testing required?

- No routine state-required annual test, portfolio, or progress report. Learning and attendance records are useful evidence of comparable instruction; routine submission is not required.

How Faith Schooling Makes It Easier

- Faith Readers supports K–5 reading and phonics; Grammar Garden supports language and writing; Building Number Sense provides K–5 mathematics.
- Use structured literacy and math lessons, then add a broad range of other subjects. The Homeschool Rhythm Builder helps organize a steady learning routine, and completed pages show your child's progress.

Official sources — click the underlined links

Official homeschool guidance

Oklahoma attendance and home-education law

Reviewed October 8, 2026 • School year 2026–2027

Faith Schooling | FaithSchooling.com

Official