When liana woke up this morning, she realized she had shrunk! Her pillow used to be be just big enough for her head...but now it was bigger than her entire body She peered over the edge of her bed toward the floare, and the ground seemed so far away! To get down, she pushed her pillow onto the floor. Oof, it was heavy! Then she took a running leap and jumped onto it. thankfully, her Dog was waiting to next the bed. He seemed to still recognize liana, but he looked very
