

The Broken Crayon Box

Read the short passage then answer the questions below.

Caleb saw a younger child cry over a broken crayon box. He gathered the pieces, sharpened what he could, and shared his own colors too. Soon the child was drawing again. No one in the story did anything grand, but the kindness still changed the day. Mercy helps restore what is small and broken. Small acts of love often leave a lasting memory.

1. Who needed care or kindness?

2. What kind action was chosen?

3. How did the story turn out?

4. What lesson does the passage teach?

