

George Mueller and the Empty Table

Read the short passage then answer the questions below.

George Mueller cared for children who had no parents. One morning there was no bread for breakfast, but he thanked God before the meal anyway. Soon a baker knocked at the door and a milk wagon broke down outside, leaving enough for the children. The people in the passage kept doing the next faithful thing in front of them. George Mueller learned again that God sees needs before we do. History is often shaped by such steady work.

1. Who is this passage about?

2. What faithful action stands out?

3. What result came from that action?

4. What lesson does the passage leave us with?

